8:46am	Principals Report Core 3 workshop was better than expected. Was specifically for middle school students focusing on Community, Character, and Connection. There were games, conversation, and specific tests to determine students specific traits, designated by a color. Students were very engaged. Worked in large "whole groups" and small "family groups." It was about "bringing your better self to make school and your community a better place." The group leader, Justin said he can return to build on Core 3 foundation. Cara would like to repeat workshop every other year, having 8th graders be leaders as they will have experienced it in 6th grade. She felt it was a good time of year to have, right after Christmas break as a motivator, heading into the second half of the school year. "Calls to Action" - means specific goals. Cara wanting to incorporate what was learned in workshop and incorporate into kindness week. Overall was very positive. Debra would like Cara to think about what she would like to do for Middle school next year, as funds are set aside for that.	Cara Alfonso
